

Notes: Qonectin Website 5/1/2023

Design

The website is not correct and does not look like the designs from Todd Hansmann. Margins, alignment, text size, font, boldness of font, and spacing are off throughout the entire website. Please see Todd Hansmann's detailed notes for corrections that need to be implemented on every section of every page. He sent them on 3/11 and 3/31. See examples of common mistakes:

Example 1: Title and body text size is wrong, alignment of the boxes is wrong, the background color story and design is different. Color is wrong. Everything on the page appears too large.

Example 2: Title and body text/font size and boldness is wrong, so large it does not fit on my screen without scrolling, Also title is so large that it takes up a 4 lines of space, the boxes are too large.

Example 3: Another example of Text/font problems with size and boldness, boxes are not the correct size, look, button wrong size, bottom writing totally different and barely noticeable (Qonectin = Transparency and fairness), lastly the colors are not correct throughout the website (see the difference is green color below.)

General Remarks

Todd mentioned in his 3/31 email that it appears you are working from an old version, not the final Qonectin website design. Please clear this up. He emailed the latest version on 3/31. Please disregard any earlier versions.
